VOLUME CIX.--NO. 101. ALEXANDRIA, VA., MONDAY EVENING, MAY 11, 1908. PRICE 2 CENTS

Words of Praise

For the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has THE BADGE OF HONESTY on every bottle-wrapper, in a full list of all its ingredients printed in plain English.

If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, gnawing distress in stomach, periodical pains, disagreeable, catarrhal, pelvic drain, dragging-down distress in lower abdomen or pelvis, perhaps dark spots or specks dancing before the eyes, faint spells and kindred symptoms caused by female weakness, or other derangement of the feminine organs, you can not do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The hospital, surgeon's knife and operating table may be avoided by the timely use of "Favorite Prescription" in such cases. Thereby the obnoxious examinations and local treatments of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home. "Favorite Prescription" is composed of the very best native medicinal roots known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, contains no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs.

Do not expect too much from "Favorite Prescription;" it will not perform miracles; it will not dissolve or cure tumors. No medicine will. It will do as much to establish vigorous health in most weaknesses and ailments peculiarly incident to women as any medicine can. It must be given a fair chance by perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this remedy of known composition.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best laxative and regulator of the bowels. They invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. One a laxative; two or three a cathartic. Easy to take as candy.

A FIEND SENTENCED.

At Prince Frederick, Md., on Saturday evening after being out 1 hour and 30 minutes the jury in the case of Arthur Rand, alias John Jones, colored, returned a verdict of guilty of felonious assault on Mrs. Mary Buggy Wade. The offense was committed January 27 near Mount Harmony. Court suspended sentence until Monday. It is understood that Judge Briscoe wishes to make further inquiry into the antecedents of the prosecuting witness before imposing sentence.

Mrs. Ward said that on the night of January 27 Rand entered her room, and with an axe and shotgun demanded of her that she place herself at his mercy. She objected at first, but under the threats that he would kill her, and after he had struck her in the chest she yielded.

Then he forced her, she said, to enter another room and give him all the money she had. She gave him a check for $40 and 25 cents in money. He then told her if she came out of the house, or made any alarm, he would kill her. He forced her to go upstairs, where he again assaulted her. Then he left her.

GOVERNORS TO CONFER.

Co-operation between the federal and the State governments that the best methods may obtain in developing and conserving the natural resources of the country is the end sought by President Roosevelt in arranging for the three days' conference of governors at the White House begining on Monday. The scope of the subject is unlimited and the proposed method of dealing with it is new and marks a distinct step forward in the political methods of the country.

Never before has a president conferred with all the governors of the States; never before has the White House sheltered a large convention called for the consideration of a great public issue; never before has the question of the conservation of the nation's natural resources been made the subject of consideration by a great deliberative body.

After hearing from experts the conditions which the country is facing, the members of the conference will themselves decide whether anything ought to be done and what.

COFFIN FOR A PULPIT.

Clad in the garb of a corpse as he expects to be laid out at his death, Staff Captain Trevet of the Salvation Army last night stepped into a coffin on the stage at the barracks at Pittsburg, Pa., and preached on "After Death." The rooms were decorated in somber mourning and the band played funeral dirges. The place was crowned to overflowing In part, he said:

"I stand here representing what every one of you must some day pass through—the valley of the shadow of death. You may pass through life without getting salvation, but there is no manner in which you can dodge the conqueror of all—death. Prepare for the final summons, for as I appear to you now so shall one and all of you some day be carried forth, while your soul will wing its way in the company of Jesus or the devil. Which shall it be? It is for you to say, for within a day you may be robed as I am now and placed in your coffin."

SENT FLOWERS TO SEA.

Shortly before the sun went down Saturday evening the young ladies of Oakwood Memorial Association of Richmond launched a small boat filled with flowers. The launching was greeted with a salute from the cannon of the Howitzer Battery as it floated down the stream bedecked with the blossoms for the Confederate sailors who went down in defense of the South. The tiny craft carried a Confederate flag, which floated proudly to the breeze. The tribute was to those of the ill-fated Confederate navy who went to their death in the craft which represented "the storm-cradled nation that fell." Thousands of people were at the docks and on the river banks, on the hills overlooking the river and the booming of the cannon was almost lost in the shouts and applause which greeted the action of the ladies who had charge of the scheme. The boat is expected to reach the ocean within the next few days with its wealth of flowers.

CHARITIES AND CORRECTION.

Road building by convicts and the importance of closer relations between social workers and the press were the main subjects of discussion at section meetings of the National Conference of Charities and Correction in Richmond on Saturday.

Because of his unfitness for higher-class labor, Superintendent E. F. Morgan, of the Virginia penitentiary, contended that the negro was best suited for public highway building, a view which was attacked by W. B. Whittaker, superintendent of the Indiana Reformatory. The mountain settlement work now being done along the Appalachian highlands was criticised by Prof. Bruce R. Payne, professor of Psychology in the University of Virginia. Prof. Payne pointed out what he thought were defects in the work of these mountain settlements.

A CHARGE OF FAITH.

Fifty Episcopal clergymen in different cities have agreed upon a certain day on which they will renounce Episcopacy as a preparatory step toward embracing the faith of Rome, according to Rev. Alvah H. Doran, formerly a prominent Episcopal rector of Philadelphia. Ten of these ministers have charges in Philadelphia, seven in New York, eight in Chicago, and six in Fond du Lac, Wis. The others are scattered throughout the United States.

This wholesale defection to the Catholic Church, according to Dr. Doran, is due primarily to the "open pulpit," which is repudiated by high churchmen. Dr. Doran was connected with the Church of the Epiphany previous to his conversion to the Catholic faith, about eight years ago.

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER.

MONDAY EVENING, MAY 11, 1908

IN THE House on Saturday Mr. John Sharp Williams, the democratic leader, in the course of perhaps the bitterest attack he ever made on the republican party, gave Speaker Cannon, Leader Payne and the republicans generally a vigorous dressing down for failing to bring in and put on its passage the bill for the publicity of campaign contributions. Mr. Payne came back with a sarcastic tirade against the democratic party and dragged up the spectre of negro disfranchisement in the South.

When Mr. Williams could get the floor again he poured into the republicans as withering a fire of vituperation as they have listened to in many a session. There was no trace of his usual humor in what Mr. Williams said or his way of saying it. He was in deadly earnest and talked with a cold, incisive deliberation that made his words sting like whips. The republicans sat silent under the merciless castigation, but there was frequent applause on the democratic side.

Mr. Payne first criticised the minority leader "for having the hardihood to say" he was in favor of honest elections. "Since when was the democratic party in favor of honest elections?" he inquired in stentorian tones. "Was it," he asked, "when it was depriving a certain class of citizens of suffrage by every means, by perjury, fraud, intimidation, murder, riot and everthing else under the sun?" He wanted to know if the democrats favored honesty in elections in the State of New York, "when time after time they carried the election not by the honest ballot, but by fraudulent votes."

The democrats, said Mr. Payne, were in favor of honest elections only when they got a majority that way. "Is it necessary for the democratic party in Maryland to disfranchise the black man?" he asked.

In reply, Mr. Williams said;

"Mr. Speaker, it is refreshing to hear a lecture upon honesty of elections from the republican party, the party of crisp $2 bills, the party of blocks of five, the party of the returning board 'way back in '76, the party that carried the election in '96 by wholesale bribery, the party that in 1904 denied it had received money from fiduciary corporations for political purposes, and was afterward convicted of falsehood in the denial; the party of 'My dear Harriman.' There was a time in the history of my own section when there was intimidation and when there was fraud. There was some excuse for it—I do not say justification, but extenuation. A great race was engaged in saving its civilization and there was some excuse at any rate, some extenuation, for setting civilization above law. But there was never any excuse, there was never any extenuation for the republican party in its programme of wholesale bribery in 1896, in 1900 and in 1904, when it took the money that belonged to widows and orphans out of fiduciary funds and never had the manhood nor the justice to return it. One of the most honest men in the republican party is now in the White House, and at one time he did have the manhood, it is at least reported, to have said that the republican campaign committee ought to return the money that had been filched from the widows and orphans and beneficiaries and policy-holders of the New York Life and the New York Mutual Insurance companies. But, under the influence of his environment, which is too strong for him, he has ceased to treat on the subject, and no longer do we hear either in message to Congress —wherein ordinarily all matters under heaven are dealt with—nor in any interview in the press, any proposition to restore those stolen funds."

Yes, there was a time in the history of the south when revolution stood in the saddle but, since then those States have adopted new constitutions. The disfranchisement laws were passed for the purpose of preventing fraud, and the Supreme Court of the United States has upheld them. Why, the gentleman's soul reels at the idea of democrats mentioning honesty of election and honesty of administration. Think of that coming from the party of the whisky fraud, the party of the Credit Mobilier, the party of the star route fraud! I can handy history with Mr. Payne all day, but I do not want to handy history. Let the dead past bury itself on both sides. Let the fraud that constituted republicanism in various parts of the country, the fraud that stalked through the south for a while when men in desperation were saving a race's civilization, let it all go for what it amounts to in history. But what are you saying now, now at the present moment; what do you say? Here I stand with shoulders not too broad and strength not too great, but at the least knowing that I represent the democratic party in that regard—here I stand to challenge you to enact that every dollar that goes into campaign funds shall be published to the world the day after it is received, so that the world may judge the motive of the giver and know the extent of the means of corruption in the hands of the recipient. What do you say for the present? What do you say for the future? Let the dead past go.

SECRETARY TAFT'S literary bureau now claims, and probably correctly, that he has already enough votes assured him to make his nomination certain in the first ballot in the Chicago convention, even if he should get no additional delegates in the States and congressional districts that will elect this week, which is the last week in which delegates may be chosen. A total of 464 instructed delegates are claimed for the Secretary of War, and of the 171 uninstructed so far chosen his backers assert he will get three-fourths. The basis for the latter claim is not given. There yet remain to be elected 128 delegates, and it is probable that the secretary will get one-half of these, which will give him more than a majority in the convention unless the great bulk of the contests are decided against him by the national committee. During the last week 124 delegates were elected and 72 received instructions to vote for Secretary Taft. The total number of delegates so far chosen is 852. Of these the delegates instruction for other candidates than Taft number 227, divided as follows: For Knox, 68; for Cannon, 46; for Fairbanks, 32; for LaFollette, 25; for Hughes, 54 and for Foraker, 2. This is according to the Taft way of reckoning.

OF ALL the silly losses of time in the Senate that on Saturday took the lead when Mr. Burkett's resolution for the purpose of declaring Sunday, May 10, "Mothers' day," and requiring the employes and officials of the Senate on that day to wear a white flower in "honor of their mothers" came up for consideration. It was presented Friday afternoon. The resolution after an hour's valuable time had been wasted was very properly defeated. Senator Fulton wisely remarked that, "We all appreciate our mothers, but we don't have to say so in this way. Great sentiments are belittled by such action as is proposed here." This sentiment was endorsed by a large majority of the members.

A UNIQUE entertainment was arranged for the members of the sub-committee of the national democratic convention, who arrived in Denver on Saturday to inspect the plans for the national convention in July. Yesterday they were the guests of President Day, of the Convention League, on a trip to the "Banks of Eternal Snow," 60 miles away, where they took their mid-day meal in snow fields 11,600 feet above sea level. This was much higher up than any of them had ever been before and probably than many of them will ever get again.

From Washington.

Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]
Washington, D. C., May 11.

In a speech to a number of members the National Prosperity Association of St. Louis, who called at the White House today, the president expressed the utmost confidence in the return of good times. Incidentally he preached to them a little sermon on good government and assured them that the work laid out by the administration would be followed up by new legislation as it is needed. He added that the policy of the administration contains no more menace to business than the legislation already enacted. Among other things, the president said: "We should address ourselves to the faithful and honest observance of the laws of civic righteousness The business and commercial interests of this country to be prosperous in any enduring sense, must be administered honestly. I welcome your work, and shall be glad to co-operate with you in any effort to establish prosperity on right and honest lines."

The grand jury today returned an indictment against Representative J. T. Heflin, of Alabama, containing three counts, charging assault with a dangerous weapon on a negro, Louis Lundy, and a New York horseman, Thomas McCreary, during an affray on a street car on March 27. McCreary was the innocent bystander, and was wounded by a stray bullet aimed at Lundy. The negro was shot in the neck but quickly recovered. Mr. Heflin fired his pistol after protesting against the negro's disorderly conduct on the street car. District Attorney Baker stated today that it was likely that Representative Heflin would appear next Friday to plead. He is now under bond.

The fireworks expected in the Senate today over the Brownsville affair will not materialize. Senator Foraker has been obliged to postpone his motion to make his bill to restore the negro soldiers to the army on their own affidavit the unfinished business of the Senate, thus displacing mr. Under the agreement reached Saturday all of today until 4 o'clock this afternoon is to be devoted to the consideration of the agricultural appropriation bill. Voting will then begin.

Although several letters were found on his person, Hanson contended that he knew nothing about them. He refused absolutely to do so and say anything about his case.

Hanson waived preliminary examination today and was held for the federal grand jury. Hanson's arrest in a crowd Sunday afternoon was a sensation. He was formerly of Fredericksburg and married a Miss Rowe, of a prominent family. Two letters containing money were found on him when he was arrested.

THE METHODISTS.

In view of the developments of the last two days, the recommendation concerning amusements, made Thursday by the Board of Bishops, in their episcopal address to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in session in Baltimore, will probably be rejected by a large majority. Two movements against radical change in the discipline came to light yesterday which will have great weight with the members of the General Conference, and will go far towards defeating the proposed measure. The committee on State and church, to which that portion of the episcopal address was referred, is preparing an unfavorable report on the matter and one petition, signed by 6,000 Methodists, has already arrived in Baltimore protesting against such action by the General Conference.

The following is a summary of the proceedings on Saturday:

A second attempt was made to prevent the exclusion of members of the conference from the executive sessions of the episcopacy committee, but it was unsuccessful.

Rev. C. J. Fowler, of Newton Center, Mass., a member of the New Hampshire Conference, appealed from the action of Bishop Goodsell in locating him, and the appeal has been referred to the committee on judiciary.

Rev. Dr. John F. Goucher offered Report No. 1 of the Commission on Federation, proposing union with the Methodist Protestant Church.

The first resolution looking toward the reduction in the size of the General Conference of the Methodist Church was offered.

Charges of maladministration have been preferred against Bishops Moore, Goodsell, McDowell and Berry by Rev. George A. Cooke, of New York.

The New Hampshire Conference will introduce a memorial requesting the General Conference to divide the work of the bishops into districts and assign a bishop to each district for four years.

The bishops and many prominent ministerial delegates occupied pulpits in Protestant churches both in the morning and at night.

Pacific coast delegates will enter a strong protest against the contemplated establishment of a Swedish Mission Conference in that section of the country.

This afternoon the committee on the episcopacy will begin its inquiry into the standing of the bishops, with a view to retiring those found to be not effective.

LETTER TO J. M. JOHNSON.

Alexandria, Va.

Dear Sir: Here's a mail-order paint—there are several such—45 per cent of its solid part is barytes and whiting, and 35 per cent of its oil is benzine and water; the rest is zinc lead and oil.

Barytes whiting benzine and water have nothing to do with paint, except to make more gallons for victims to buy at $5 a gallon put-on.

$5 a gallon put-on will buy the best paint there is in the world; here's a paint, about half neither pigment nor oil, imposing on the unsuspecting.

What is the remedy? What is the victim to do? Do you favor a pure-paint law in your State?

North Dakota has lately passed such a law; it is worth, we presume, $5 a year to the average man. What is wanted, of course, is paint of such strength that 10 gallons will do a 10-gallon job and wear a long time. Devoe is that paint. Should counterfeits be put-down by law?

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & Co.

Cornerstone Laying.

Washington, May 11.—The greater portion of the western hemisphere was officially represented today at the laying of the corner stone of the future home of the International Bureau of American Republics.

President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Root were the principal speakers. Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, delivered the invocation, and Bishop Granston, of the Methodist Church, dean of the Protestant clergy in the District of Columbia, delivered the benediction.

The stands were filled with national and state dignitaries as well as many prominent people from other countries.

The exercises began at 3 p. m. with a short speech by the director of the bureau, John Barrett, who presented Secretary Root, as chairman of the executive board and presiding officer of the day. A long copper box was placed under the stone slab. It had to do twenty times the service that usually falls to the lot of such receptacles, as there were twenty-one countries, whose coins, messages, photographs and other souvenirs, had to be included in the cache, which is to give evidence to future generations of the epocal nature of today's event.

A score of cable messages from the presidents of South and Central American countries, exuding an atmosphere of fraternity and good will and expressing congratulations all around, were read as a prologue to the actual ceremony of the corner stone laying.

It was noted that President Castro of Venezuela, whose country is wrestling with foreign claimants, was not among the executives who sent messages.

The president in his speech thanked Mr. Carnegie for his generous gift toward the construction of the handsome edifice, and greeted the representatives of the South American republics. He said: "In a sense, you are our elder sisters and we the younger people, for you represent a more ancient civilization on this continent than we do." He then gave a rapid resume of the history and development of South America and the possibilities of that portion of the continent. Mr. Roosevelt referred to the voyage of the United States fleet from the Atlantic to the Pacific. He said: "Our battle fleet has just finished its trip around South America and I wish to thank the rulers and the people of South America and of Mexico for the generous and courteous hospitality which has been shown this fleet on every possible occasion throughout the trip." In conclusion the president spoke of the trip, made a couple of years ago by the Secretary of State, Elihu Root, and the courteous manner in which he was received in South America.

Secretary Root's address consisted in the main of an interesting epitome of the movement which has culminated in laying the corner stone of the building, and the purposes of the bureau. Addresses were also made by Mr. Andrew Carnegie and Senor Joaquim Nabusco the Ambassador of Brazil, who is the dean of the Latin American diplomatic corps in Washington.

The Socialists' Convention.

Chicago, May 11.—With organization perfected, the national socialist convention settled down today to its first real fight, that of adopting rules to govern the selection of candidates for president and vice president. In the past a majority vote has been sufficient to name the candidates, but today the leaders are trying to force through a two-thirds rule.

A lively contest which will probably last three or four days is expected to start today over the terms of the party's declaration of principles. The recommendations of the last international conference at Stuttgart are not accepted here as being best suited to this country.

A delegation from the socialist labor party, De Leon faction, arrived here today to try arrange an amalgamation of the two organizations. They were coldly received, the general impression being that they have not the strength to make it worth while.

While the Debs sentiment is still supreme in the convention, friends of the other candidates mentioned are active.

Close friends of William D. Haywood, of Denver, secretary-treasurer of the Western Federation of Miners, are working on him to have a statement issued that he is not a presidential candidate and never has been. They fear that if he is defeated after making a fight he will loss his influence in the party and declare that he is young enough to wait four years.

Some of the women delegates are desirious of emulating the example set some years ago of a woman candidate, and are urging the claims of Ida Crouch Hazlett, of Montana, for second place on the ticket.

Victor Berger, of Milwaukee, in an impassioned speech today on the floor of the socialist convention demanding that the organization declare in favor of trades union, warned the convention that he and his friends will bolt if unionism is not favored. The convention is in an uproar as a result of a fight between the factions.

Conservatism won its victory in the socialists' national convention today, but by the scant majority of one. Incidentally the proposition to tack the national socialist movement as a tail to the kite of the Western Federation of Miners was rebuked following a stormy session in which personalities were freely indulged.

It was admitted on all sides that this means the nomination of Eugene Debs and the adoption of a conservative platform, as well as the carrying through of the original programme of the leaders.

Attempt to Burn Tenement.

New York, May 11.—An eighth attempt within four days was made this morning to burn the five-story tenement house No. 140 west Twenty-ninth street. The incendiary was seen by a policeman to throw a blazing oil-soaked torch through a skylight. The policeman sounded an alarm of fire and then attempted to capture the would-be incendiary but the latter escaped. The fire was soon subdued. It is thought that some of the tenants of the house have been sentenced to death by a secret society.

Ex-President Cleveland Improving.

Lakewood, N. J. May 11.—Former President Grover Cleveland is reported to be much better today and plans have been made for his removal to Princeton soon. Mrs. Cleveland was so encouraged by the improvement in his condition that she left here this morning and went to Princeton to see her children.

Charges Against Bishops.

Baltimore, May 11.—This week will be one of the most eventful of the present session of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and today is one of the most important of the week. Charges against four bishops will be heard between now and Saturday, and their standing for the next four years will depend upon the outcome of the hearing.

The most sensational event will be the consideration of the charges preferred by Rev. George A. Cooke, of New York, against Bishops David H. Moore, of Portland, Ore.; Daniel A. Goodsell, of Boston; William F. McDowell, of Chicago, and Joseph Berry of Buffalo. Rev. Cook charges all four of the bishops with maladministration. They grow out of rulings of charges which Rev. Cooke has preferred against prominent Methodists, including Rev. Dr. J. M. Buckley, of New York; Chancellor James R. Day, of Syracuse University, and Prof. Borden P. Bowne, of Boston University. The alleged maladministration of the four bishops is said to lie in the fact that they did not rule correctly when charges against the men were laid before them.

At the last session of the New York Conference Rev. Cooke charged that Chancellor Day, in criticising President Roosevelt, had violated one of the general rules of the church, which prohibits "uncharitable and unprofitable conversation, particularly speaking evil of magistrates or of ministers."

Report Mrs. Gunness Dead.

La Porte, Ind., May 11.—Mrs Belle Gunness paid the penalty of her ten or more fiendish murders in the fire that destroyed her charnel house on the morning of April 28. The woman's body, burned almost beyond recognition, that was dug out of the ruins with those of her three children, has been identified so positively as to leave no doubt in the mind of anyone who knows the evidence which the authorities of La Porte county have been concealing from the public.

Evidence that Andrew Helgaline, victim of Mrs. Gunness's murder passion, had a terrible struggle with his slayer before he died, was found today. Dr. J. H. W. Meyer reported to the coroner that he found in Helgaline's clenched right hand several brown curly hairs. The fingers of this hand had been cut off at the knuckles, showing an effort had been made to take the hairs out before the body was buried. Whether these hairs were Mrs. Gunness's or Ray Lamphere's is not known. Lamphere's hair is curly and dark brown.

Women Footpads.

New York, May 11.—The police believe today that they have two of the band of women footpads, who have made the streets of New York dangerous for men in the early morning, in the arrest of two women on the charge of garroting, knocking down and robbing Hyman Brosman. Brosman lost $63 in cash and checks for $180. The women, after choking him almost into insensibility, searched his pockets and then knocked him down, leaving him half unconscious. Detectives who were near by heard his cries. They chased the women who ran into a nearby house. The detectives broke in the door and followed. They traced the women to the roof and there found them crouched behind a chimney. The detectives returned the checks to Brosman and said they found them on the stairs leading to the roof. They found no trace of the money. The prisoners said they were Mary Johnson and Mary Harris.

Mysterious Disappearance.

Sandy Hook, N. J., May 11.—Rumors of violence and murder surrounding the disappearance of Charles Eldridge, of Highland Beach, N. J., whose boat was picked up in the Horse Shoe bay here today, showing evidence of a struggle on board. Eldridge was engaged Saturday by a party of soldiers from this station to bring them out to the hook from Highland Beach in his power boat. He landed the soldiers safely and that was the last they saw of him. The boat when picked up today was found to be in perfect running condition. Mrs. Eldridge told the government authorities that her husband had forty dollars in his pocket Saturday, and that she fears he was robbed and perhaps thrown overboard. Eldridge has eight children.

Secretary Taft.

Panama, May 11.—With his business relative to the canal administration and inspection completed today, Secretary Taft will sail for the United States on board the cruiser Prairie tomorrow morning.

The most important task which called the war secretary to the zone was the satisfactory adjustment of the numerous treaties between Colombia, the United States and Panama. While brief, the secretary's trip to the canal was prolific of much work carried out along lines favorable to the United States.

Case of Husband-beating.

Hoboken, N. J., May 12. Lena Fremuth was presented before Recorder McGovern here today on the charge of husband beating. Frank Fremuth, the complainant, is a large, healthy, robust man, but he told the court his wife whipped him so much he could not stand it. After hearing the evidence, the recorder told the woman he would dismiss the charge, and suggested that she go home and patch up her troubles. "Not on your life," exclaimed the husband. "If I went home with her I'd have to be patched up in a hospital."

Sentenced to the Penitentiary.

Baltimore, Md., May 11.—Arthur Rand, the negro convicted on Saturday of committing a felonious assault on Mrs. Mary Boggy Ward, was today sentenced to 35 years in the Maryland penitentiary by Judge Briscoe at Prince Fredericktown. The prisoner was quickly placed on board a train and hurried to Baltimore to prevent a lynching.

New York Stock Market.

New York, May 11.—The new week started with a continuation of the upward movement that has been in progress with unimportant interruption since the announcement of the Pennsylvania loan. The most striking feature of the trading was the development of strength and activity in stocks that have been lethargic so far in advance. A number of stocks scored advances of about one point. Talk was chiefly about the short interest and it was asserted that the high opening in New York Central was part of a movement against the shorts.

Sixtieth Congress.

Washington, May 11.

SENATE.

In the absence of Vice President Fairbanks today, Senator Frye, of Maine, presided over the session of the Senate.

Consideration of the agricultural appropriation bill was resumed in the Senate this morning at a session beginning at 11 o'clock. The change in the hour of meeting was made in order to permit the close of all debate and a vote upon the bill at 4 o'clock today. After 2 o'clock speeches will be limited to ten minutes.

Senator Rayner, of Maryland, today introduced in the Senate a resolution calling upon the president to appoint a court of inquiry in the case of Colonel William F. Stewart, who, after refusing to resign from the army, which he had been requested to do because he was always in hot water with his subordinate officers or his troops, was exiled to Fort Grant, an abandoned military post in Arizona, later transferred to another abandoned post in Florida, and again returned to Ft. Grant. Senator Rayner will address the Senate on this subject tomorrow and in the course of his speech it is likely that he will make public the letter recently received from the president on this subject in which the president declares that as commander-in-chief of the army he has absolute control of the officers and men.

Mr. Rayner's resolution recites the fact that Colonel Stewart has not been served with copies of the charges upon which this action has been based, and that his request for a court of inquiry has been denied. The punishment of sending him to an abandoned post without command was given without affording him an opportunity to relieve himself of the charges or giving him the slightest information regarding their nature. The president is therefore authorized to appoint a court of inquiry consisting of five army officers to fully investigate all of the charges against Colonel Stewart; the latter is to be represented by counsel and to be permitted to be present during the examination of witnesses. Senator Rayner's interest in the matter is because of the fact that Stewart's wife is a relative of the late Senator Whyte, of Maryland.

HOUSE.

For the third time in five weeks, due to the democratic filibuster, the House today was opened by prayer.

The House agreed to the Senate amendments to the anti-betting bill, which now requires only the president's signature to be a law. It is designed to put an end to gambling on race tracks within the District of Columbia.

Minority leader Williams, in suspending his filibuster, explained that he believed the bill so meritorious he would not delay its passage even by a roll call.

CONGRESSIONAL.

In the Senate, on Saturday, the forestry bureau of the Agricultural Department was again under fire. An agreement was reached to vote on the agricultural appropriation bill at 4 o'clock today.

Senator Rayner has prepared a resolution attacking the president and directing him to order a court of inquiry in Colonel Stewart's case.

The House passed a substitute for the child labor bill for the District of Columbia, which was recently passed by the Senate. It prohibits children under 14 years of age from working in a factory or store or elsewhere during public school hours or at night.

Under suspension of the rules the House passed a bill amending the naturalization laws so as to permit of appeals from United States district courts to circuit courts of appeal.

Messrs Payne and Williams, majority and minority leaders, enlivened the proceedings with political speeches charging each other's party with dishonesty in elections.

The House met yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock to hear eulogies on the life of the late Representative Adolph Meyer, of Louisiania.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

The memorial services conducted by Alva Aerie, No. 871, Fraternal Order of Eagles, at the Opera House last night brought together one of the largest gatherings ever seen in that place. The programme of exercises was appropriate and interesting, and every number was greatly enjoyed. Those who participated in the entertainment had perfected themselves for the occasion, and they all acquitted themselves in a creditable manner.

The stage, which was tastefully decorated with palms, flowers, and American flags, was filled with members of the order.

At the back of the stage a large tablet, encircled with a floral wreath, bore the name of those whose memory was honored: Joseph J. Roberts, William M. Glasgow, Samuel R. Wingfield, J. Frank Cook, Joseph O'Toole, George L. Simpson, Peter Sinclair and Wayne L. Garr. As the roll of the dead was called by the secretary, a minature light opposite each name was extinguished, and a large, luminous star appeared above.

The principal speakers were Representatives C. C. Carlin, of Alexandria, and Julius Kahn, of California, who is a member of San Francisco Aerie, No. 5. These gentlemen delivered able and interesting addresses on fraternalism which were listened to with close attention.

The features of the programme were as follows: Funeral march by the Eagle orchestra, remarks by Worthy President E. J. Fleming, prayer by Chaplain Walter E. Jacobson, soprano solo, by Mrs. C. B. Bayly, jr., an address by Worthy Past President Thomas Chauncey, a solo by Charles E Meyers, an oration by Representative C. C. Carlin, selections by the orchestra, roll call of departed by Worthy Secretary Joseph H. West, assisted by a quartet composed of J. Gordon Phillips, J. E. Griffith, F. W. Smith and Lewis H. Ochse; a trio, Messrs. Charles E. Meyers, Dana C. Holland and Mrs. Charles B. Bayly, jr.; an oration by J. L. Feeney, treasurer of Washington Aerie, No. 125; a solo by Mrs. Esther Gumprecht; an oration by Representative, Julius Kahn; quartet, Charles B. Bayly, jr., Mrs. Esther Gumprecht, Charles E. Meyers and Dana C. Holland; closing exercises, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," and benediction by Rev. W. W. Van Arsdale; coronation. Charles V. Schofield of Washington Aerie, No. 125, was musical director, and the stage setting was under the direction of Jacob Johnson, conductor of Washington Aerie, No 125.

The following are the present officers of Alva Aerie: Thomas Chauncey, past worthy president; Edward J. Fleming, worthy president; John A. Rice, worthy vice-president; Walter E. Jacobson, worthy chaplain; Joseph H. West, worthy recording secretary; A. A. Paul, worthy treasurer; Geo. A. Norris, worthy conductor; Walter Hughes, inner guard; Thos. D. Downey, outside guard; Sam'l B. Moore, worthy physician; Chas. H. Zimmerman, Peter T. Harrington, John Morgan, worthy trustees.

Grand Aerie members: Messrs Harry Fleischmann, Eugene Rogers, Jacob Brill and Sam'l Bendheim.

After about two-thirds of the programme had been rendered the appearance of smoke on the stage caused considerable apprehension. No outcry was made, but many composing the audience moved toward the exits and others left the hall. Members of the lodge who were on the stage assured those in the auditorium that the smoke came throught the doors and windows from an alley near by, which statement had a tendency to allay the excitement. One woman, however, fainted.

It was later ascertained that the smoke came from a stove in a room on the first floor of the Opera House building, and was caused by the burning of some excelsior by a man who was engaged in cleaning an office.

The incident satisfied all present that in case of actual danger the exits of the Opera House are sufficient to enable the audience to gain the street before any calamity could possibly occur. The bulk of the audience last night seemed to realize this, and manifested wisdom by not engaging in a stampede.

SPEAKING AT FALLS CHURCH.

It had been announced that Hon. C. C. Carlin and Mr. R Lindsey Gordon would speak from the same platform at Falls Church last Saturday night, and a large crowd gathered in expectation of hearing these gentlemen. Mr. Carlin, however, was not present.

The meeting had benn arranged by Mr. Gordon's supporters, and it was stated by friends of the present Representative in Congress who were present at the meeting that the use of Mr. Carlin's name was without authority.

Mr. Gordon was preceded in the speaking by Mr. R. E. Lee, jr., of Fairfax county, and former State Senator Lewis H. Machen.

Mr. Samuel G. Brent, of Alexandria, and Mr. R. C. L. Moncure, of Alexandria county, were present, and asked that they be allowed to present Mr. Carlin's side of the question, but their request was refused.

Mr. Lee asked the voters present to support Mr. Gordon.

Mr. Machen in his speech stated that Mr. Carlin's only claim for renomination was the fact that he should have another term.

Mr. Gordon read affidavits charging Mr. Carlin with the use of money and whisky in the last campaign, but made no reference to the charges recently made that the poll lists in Louisa, his home county, had been padded in his behalf.

Mr. Carlin's name was cheered each time it was uttered.

POLICEMAN REPRIMANDED.

Policeman A. J. Nicholson was summoned before Mayor Paff last Saturday night to answer a charge of insubordination in refusing to acknowledge a letter written by his honor granting to Mr. Charles S. Taylor the privilege of acting as a guide to strangers who may visit Alexandria. Among the first to apply for a license under the ordinance recently passed by the City Council was Mr. Taylor, a member of R. E. Lee Camp of Confederate Veterans. As the printed license forms and the badges had not been received, Mayor Paff gave Mr. Taylor a letter setting forth that he was authorized to pursue the vocation of a guide under the provisions of the ordinance. Mr. Taylor was serving as a guide to some tourists, when Policeman Nicholson interfered and refused to abide by the mayor's letter. The latter administered a reprimand to the policemen.

The mayor has examined a number of applicants for license as city guides, and in most cases has issued to them the required badge.

A St. Luke's club was organized at 427 south Royal street on Saturday evening. The object of the club is to organize a regular council under the auspices of the General Council of the I. O. of St. Lukes, the headquarters of which are in Richmond. The St. Luke's Council is one of the strongest beneficial societies for colored people in this country. Maggie Walker is the head of the organization and president of a penny savings bank operated in the interest of the order. The bank was duly chartered under the State and United States laws. Among the club officers chosen by this club are Magnus L. Robinson, council advocate, and Edward Green, conductor. A sermon will be preached before the members of the club on the first Sunday in June.

I. O. O. F.

D. R. Stansbury, past grand master; P. M. Bradshaw, trustee of the Odd Fellows' Home; W. H. Wills, representative from Potomac Lodge; H. Friedlander, delegate from Marley Encampment; S. F. MEMORIAL DAY.

The members of the Alexandria Glass Bottle Blowers' Association observed yesterday as their memorial day. The association attended the morning service in Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church. Rev. W. W. Van Arsdale, the pastor of the church, preached a sermon appropriate to the occasion which was listened to with close attention by all present.

RAISING THE TRENTON.

The force of men engaged in raising the steamer Trenton, which sank a week ago yesterday, made considerable progress in their work yesterday and last night. They had succeeded in moving the steamer about 30 feet this morning. One of the chains broke during the night which retarded the work somewhat.

A Woman Governor.

Queens have ruled many nations, but Pennsylvania is the only one of the United States that ever had a woman for governor. A passage unearthed from Armor's "Governors of Pennsylvania," page 126, says:

"On the 30th of July, 1718, William Penn died, at the age of seventy-four. By his will his wife, Hannah, was made his sole executrix and assumed the management of colonial affairs, executing this difficult task with rare tact and business capacity. 'She became,' says Watson, 'in effect our governor, ruling us by her deputies or lieutenant governors during all the term of her children's minority.'"

Lion and Unicorn.

The animosity which was supposed to exist between the lion and the unicorn, as referred to by Spenser in his "Faerie Queene," is allegorical of the deep rooted ill will which anciently existed between England and Scotland. Ever since 1603 the royal arms have been supported, as now, by the English lion and the Scottish unicorn in token of the fact that St. George and St. Andrew had at last shaken hands and forgotten their old difference.

An Explanation.

The passionate rhythms of "The Merry Widow" waltz floated through the office, and the boss looked up from his desk impatiently.

"Frederic," he said, "I wish you wouldn't whistle at your work."

"I ain't workin', sir," the office boy replied calmly. "I'm only just whistlin'."—New York Press.

Making It Plain.

Henri was paying his first visit to London and was already wishing himself home in gay Paree, for he knew not a word of English. He had been very unfortunate and had lost all his luggage, a toothbrush. So he determined to buy another. But how was he to make his needs understood?

At last his luck turned, however, and he espied a chemist's shop with a notice outside, "Ici on Parle Francais." In he went and told the assistant in French what he wanted. But that assistant knew no language except English, and another who came to help him was just as far at sea.

But the proprietor was an intelligent man, and he knew at once from the cut of the customer's clothes that he was speaking French.

"Leave him to me," he said, with a superior smile.

Then, forming a megaphone with his hands, he shouted in the Frenchman's ear:

"Our assistant who speaks French is out at lunch. You'll have to wait!"—London Scraps.

Swordsmen of the Sea.

The swordsmen of the sea are the sawfisher, spearfishes, sailfishes, swordfishes and the narwhal, with its spirally twisted straight tusks. The sawfishes inhabit the warmer seas, while the narwhal is a creature of the arctic. The tusk of the narwhal is hollow nearly to the point and is spirally grooved. It uses its tusk as a weapon of defense and to plunge through the ice to breathe, the narwhal being a cetacean. Sometimes when a boat has been caught in the ice great damage has been inflicted by the inquisitiveness or blundering of this great creature, that sometimes reaches a length of fifteen feet, with a tusk of from six to ten feet in length. As a rule, however, the narwhal uses its tusk for the purpose of killing fish for food. In the castle of Rosenberg the kings of Denmark have long possessed a magnificent throne made of tusks of this cetacean. These tusks are harder and whiter than ivory.

Beavers Train Their Young.

Naturalists have placed the beaver a long way down in the list of vertebrates, but it undoubtedly stands next to man in the variety of occupations in which it engages. All cats are hunters, while foxes that are not thieves may be included also among the Nimrods. All canaries are prima donnas, and monkeys make clever comedians, but it is only the beaver parent that educates its children to take up several trades. In a single colony among them you will find civil and marine engineers, woodchoppers, raftsmen, laborers, quarrymen, miners, plasterers, masons, carpenters, hodcarriers and fishermen. All beavers take contracts for building dams, but when the work is undertaken the task is so divided that each member of the colony has its own particular work to look after. In this way they make some wonderful excavations and construct their dams in an incredibly short time.

Marry and Part For a Year.

Among the many peculiar customs prevalent among the people of Central America is that of parting for one year after the marriage ceremony has been solemnized. This custom has prevailed among the Jarnos from time immemorial. There is no courtship allowed to be carried on between the parties prior to the wedding. When a man selects a woman he obtains the consent of the parents on both sides, and if this is given they are at once married. The reason, however, for their not living together as man and wife for one year after marriage is in order to permit of the parties visiting and staying with their respective friends in different parts of the country, which is a customary thing and occupies the time specified. Ninety-nine out of a hundred of these marriages turn out well.

A Chance to Spoon.

A young couple from the suburbs went to Dublin the other day to see the pantomime. Being early, they visited a tea room and had the place all to themselves. The attending waitress had omitted in serving them to supply the necessary implement to effectually assist in the proper and palatable admixture of the tea, cream and sugar.

"Can we have a spoon?" inquired the swain.

"Certainly," replied the observant attendant. "I am just tidying up, and you can have the whole room to yourselves in a minute or two."—Liverpool Mercury.

Holding His Job.

"I think the man who works at that place across the street is the most faithful and conscientious workman I ever saw. He never takes a holiday and always labors away till it's too dark to see any longer."

"Faithful workman! Great Scott! He's the proprietor of the shop!"—Chicago Tribune.

The Fireside Diplomat.

"I don't want to be nagging at you," Mrs. Marryat began, "but it's the little things that bother me most"—

"Ah!" interrupted her husband sweetly. "I suppose you're going to tell me you haven't a decent pair of shoes."—Philadelphia Press.

Homemade.

"We are told to cast our bread upon the waters," said a young wife.

"But don't you do it," replied her husband. "A vessel might run against it and get wrecked."—Simplicissimus.

A Wrong Guess.

The Message on His Watch.

In "Memories of Eight Parliaments" Mr. Lucy, the author, tells a story about Mr. Pyne, member for West Waterford, who, when under the crimes act a warrant was issued for his arrest in 1887, shut himself up in his Irish home, Lisfarney castle, had the trenches filled with water, the drawbridge up, took in supplies by a window in the battlements and thus lived for months, while he poked fun at the policemen who were wandering about below with the warrant in their pockets.

"The originality of Mr. Pyne's mind," continues Mr. Lucy, "was further indicated upon his watch. On its dial he had roughly engraved 'Pay no rent.' Whenever in troubled times any of his neighbors came to him for advice as to what they should do in the presence of a demand for rent, Mr. Pyne solemnly shook his head. 'I cannot,' he said, 'express my views on the subject, for Mr. Balfour says they are illegal. But I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll show you what time of day it is,' and, holding out his watch, the perturbed tenant read upon it the admonitory legend, 'Pay no rent.'"

Laws Against Beggars.

Begging was a capital offense in England in the days of Henry VIII., when the laws were very severe against beggars, and under a statute passed in that reign any one caught begging for the first time, being neither aged nor infirm, was whipped at the cart's tail. If caught a second time his ear was slit or bored through with a hot iron. If caught a third time he suffered death as a felon unless some honest person having £10 in goods or 40 shillings in land or some householder approved by the justices would take the offender into his service for two years, entering into a bond of £10. So the law of England remained for sixty years. First enacted by Henry VIII., it continued unrepealed through the reigns of Edward and Mary. Reconsidered under Elizabeth, the same law was again formally passed, the two legislative houses thereby expressing their conviction that it was better for a man not to live at all than to live the life of a beggar.

Tainted Diamonds.

The lapidary was about to cut the tail off a tadpole shaped yellow diamond.

"The chances are," he said, "that this fellow will turn white from terror when I split him. If he does his value will go up 200 per cent."

The lapidary set his steel knife in position. He prepared to strike on the knife's back the momentous blow.

"Wish me luck," he said.

And the hammer fell, the amputated tail dropped into the box underneath, and, lo, the yellow diamond that had been split was now quite white.

"The yellow taint," the cutter explained, "was only in the tail. Yet the taint was reflected all through the stone, and this made it seem of a uniform yellow throughout. Now the taint is gone, and our yellow diamond is a pure white one.

"The miracle happens fairly often."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Epigrams of an Indian.

Chief Joseph of the Nez Perces was a truly remarkable Indian. He rarely spoke, but when he did his lips dropped wisdom. Here are a few of the sayings attributed to him:

"Look twice at a two faced man."

"Cursed be the hand that scalps the reputation of the dead."

"The eye tells what the tongue would hide."

"Fire water courage ends in trembling fear."

"Big name often stands on small legs."

"Finest fur may cover toughest meat."

"When you get the last word with an echo you may do so with a squaw."

Fish, Chicken and Veal.

Raw pullet, raw veal and raw fish make the graveyard fat. This is hundreds of years old. A New York caterer (perhaps the most efficient in the city) said to me: "There are three important articles of food that must under no circumstances be served underdone. They are fish, chicken and veal. By chicken I mean all poultry of a domestic nature. All game birds should be rare. You want to be a little careful about lamb too. Give it plenty of cooking."—New York Press.

Buttermilk.

"Which is the cow that gives the buttermilk?" innocently asked the young lady from the city, who was inspecting the herd with a critical eye.

"Don't make yourself ridiculous," said the young lady who had been in the country before and knew a thing or two. "Goats give buttermilk."—Springfield Journal.

Few and Far Between.

"If men really would vote as they pray," remarked Goodley, "this would truly be a happy world."

"Yes," replied Wise, "but in that case you wouldn't get some men to the polls once in ten years."—Washington Star.

Must Be Stylish.

"Why do you wear that ridiculous hat?" he growled.

"Do you really think it ridiculous?" she replied graciously. "How lovely of you! I was afraid it wasn't quite the style!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Permanent Receiver.

Jewelry Protection.

"The general public is not aware of the carefully worked out system by which the large jewelry houses continue to protect their splendid wares long after these have been sold and passed out of their hands," said a detective, discussing daring modern burglaries. "Most large establishments dealing in precious metals and gems have a carefully organized and very efficient detective system, which makes it easy for a patron to recover stolen goods without charge and with little or no delay in the institution of the search. In the safes of these large jewel houses are minute descriptions of every piece of valuable jewelry which goes out from the establishment. Each piece is numbered too. When the gems are missed the patron telephones the shop in which the articles were purchased. At once a special detective, thoroughly acquainted with the business in hand and armed with a detailed description of the jewelry, is hurried to the scene of action. This is without expense to the client."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Something Hotel Clerks Remember.

"There's lots less danger of the night clerk forgetting an early call left by some guest than most travelers imagine," remarked a hotel manager the other day. "The fact is," he declared, "the average night clerk could not forget one of those early calls if he wanted to. You know, it's a mighty lonesome job the night clerk has. There is little for him to do, few arrivals to take care of and little to break the monotony of his long vigil. About the only fun the night clerk has is those early morning calls. When I was a night clerk I used to count the hours until I could start in on those early calls. There was nothing else to do or think about, and it would keep going through my mind what fun it would be to make some guest share my forlorn state by getting him out of his warm bed all sleepy eyed. I could not any more have overlooked one of those early calls than I could have overlooked my breakfast when the time came."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In the Jaws of a Lion.

A lion comes at its enemy at full speed, galloping low, and dashes a man standing upright to the ground by the full impact of its body. Major Inverarity states that "the claws and teeth entering the flesh do not hurt as much as you would think," but that the squeeze given by the jaws on the bone is really painful. When knocked over he was still keenly conscious and felt none of the dreamy sensations experienced by Livingstone.

Major Swaine, struck down by a lioness going full gallop, was unconscious for some minutes and did not know what had happened till he found himself standing up after the accident. "I felt no pain," he writes, "not, I believe, owing to any special interposition of Providence, but simply that the shock and loss of blood made me incapable of feeling it. There was no pain for a few days till it was brought on by the swelling of my arm on the twelve days' ride to the coast."—London Spectator.
